Subject: Panacea "Beta" Rollout

Discussion Leader: Dr. Glisser

-Check ins. Everyone is "stressed"

-History on the Panacea "Beta" project. Basically: we've locked down how it interacts with adults, now we need to pursue teens and those under 30

-Dr. Glisser underlines her plan: a rollout of the drug program to ten different schools, in a two week program

-Objectives: get results quick, perform the necessary incursions if need be, be out of there quick

-She suggests that we stay away from public schools, as that will draw too much attention to ourselves and involve government (?)

-List of colleges in Rollout:

Antioch College

Ashland University

Franklin University

Hiram College

~~Kenyon College~~ (actually not ideal environment)

Lake Erie College

Marietta College

Oberlin College

Remington College

Tiffin University

Wittenberg University

-At college, will offer beta program in exchange for college credit/cold hard cash. Do not actually have to follow through, however; Glisser believes once the drug is out on market no one will care anymore

-AD asks what Dr. Ge thinks of this. Ge isn't at the meeting, and Glisser offers not much; says something along the lines of "I ran this by her and she gave the OK."

-SP asks what the scientific objectives of the beta rollout are. Glisser says our knowledge of how the drug effects those of all ages will increase dramatically

-HZ asks how we are dealing with casualties. Glisser says that there will be ground teams on standby. Corpses will be extradited to our lab. Terms and conditions will be too long to read, she figures. Sue the shit out of those who talk

-TF asks what movie night will be this week. Glisser says John Carpenter's The Thing. Room laughs
